

LEGAL IT LANDSCAPES

EVENT
MAR 20
2019

HOSTED BY

SPONSORED BY

AGENDA

9.00 Coffee and introductions

9.30 Welcome to the morning
Tim Parkes, commercial relationship manager – professional services, Metro Bank

9.35 Can SME law firms compete in a tech-equipped battle for clients?
From machine learning to management information, portals to pricing, LPM's Legal IT landscapes 2019 research reveals which areas of tech will give you the best bang for your buck (or pound, or euro). We delve into which technologies SME law firms say will deliver the most impact, question whether firms are investing enough to be future-proofed, and draw out some trends in the changing digital workplace that presage enormous potential change for law firm senior management in the near to mid-term. Get ahead of the trends with the LPM research gurus...
Rupert Collins-White, chief data wrangler, LPM
Sarah Butler, data shepherd, LPM

10.20 Working smarter and safer – advancing your security maturity for more mobility
Law firms are increasingly adopting smarter ways of working – going more mobile and flexible. But while the benefits of this are significant, especially around talent attraction and retention, it brings with it security challenges. This session will uncover how firms can advance their security maturity to protect themselves while moving more personnel and data into the world.
Mohamed Bakeer, chief technology officer, CTS

10.45 Coffee and Birds of a Feather networking
Discuss some of the key topics from LPM Legal IT landscapes 2019 during our facilitated networking break.

11.20 Cyber and information security surgery
Join this live surgery masterclass and have all of your cyber and information security questions answered. Pull together all the queries you've been desperate to get to the bottom of and speak to security expert, Andy Miles, who has a deep understanding of the security challenges the UK and European legal sector faces.
Andy Miles, founder and CEO, ThinkMarble

11.45 The collaboration conundrum
Is your law firm collaborating with clients as effectively as possible? We'll be tackling this tricky problem in the best way possible – through collaboration. This panel session of law firm leaders will start a discussion on one of the key areas of the LITL report: what technology will add the most value to the client experience?
Facilitator: Kayli Olson, editor, LPM
Panel: Alan Cousins, practice director, Paris Smith
Oshin Shahiean, managing partner, OTS Solicitors

12.15 After-event coffee and chat